IRVING COMMUNITY TELEVISION NETWORK WINS 11 NATIONAL AWARDS

(IRVING, TEXAS) – For Irving residents who want to know what is going on in their city, all they have to do is tune to Irving Community Television Network (ICTN). ICTN is the city’s video production department that produces an array of quality news programming, arts and entertainment features and informational videos.

The National Association of Telecommunications Officers and Advisors (NATOA) recently honored ICTN with 11 awards during this year’s virtual conference. NATOA received more than 550 entries submitted by local governments across the country.

Top awards included the Award of Excellence for “Illuminate Irving,” a story about the city’s efforts to raise community awareness and provide assistance for those who experience domestic abuse.

The city’s production division also won an Award of Excellence in the Student/Intern category for “North Texas Comic Book Show 2019,” as well as its news series program, City Source, hosted by Thomas Gandy.

“Irving is unique in that it offers a significant amount of hyper-local news for its residents,” said Irving Communications Director April Reiling. “Irving Community Television Network is a tremendous asset to the city and to the community, and I am proud of the team of professionals who work hard to tell Irving’s story in an engaging yet informative way.”

The city leverages ICTN’s video production expertise for internal and external communications, including features on the employee intranet, the city’s YouTube channel and social media platforms.

For a full listing of awards, and to learn more about ICTN visit the city’s website at CityofIrving.org. To view additional ICTN videos, visit youtube.com/user/TheCityofIrving or search for videos on-demand at ICTN.TV.
