

Elephant Goes Wild, Man Killed

SAN ANGELO (UPI)--A female elephant named Henryetta, taking a break from entertaining children at a shopping center, went berserk Monday and picked up a 67-year-old man in her trunk, dashed him to death as shoppers looked on in horror.

Justice of the Peace J. B. Holberg said the man who was killed, John Orr, had stopped directly in front of the 40-year-old elephant when the beast suddenly trumpeted and grabbed him about the waist with her trunk.
