Long Career of Service To Youth Ended by Death

The sudden passing of Horace A. Jackson on June 9th was a shock to family and friends. He had been teaching mathematics in the Bowie Jr. High School in Irving since 1952, and his plans were to continue.

Jackson was graduated from Baylor University in 1923, receiving a B. A. Degree. In 1930, he earned a M. A. Degree from Texas Tech in Lubbock.

He had been in school work since 1927, having taught at Hedley, Rochester, Gillespie, Memphis and Pasadena, Texas. After serving as Superintendent of Schools at Memphis for ten years, he chose to serve the Pasadena Schools as Superintendent for as many years. Due to the booming of industry in the area at this time, there was an enormous increase of students in the Pasadena Public School System. Because of this fact, Jackson made several trips to Washington, D. C. to obtain aid for the rapid growth area so that the quality of the education for the many pupils would remain on a high level.

Jackson was an active member of the Baptist Church. He served as Chairman of the Deacon Body of the First Baptist Church of Pasadena before coming to the Irving. Since moving to Irving, he has been active as a deacon, and as a Sunday School teacher in the First Baptist Church.

His Sunday School class consisted of 24 year old boys. He chose to work with the same age boys that he worked with in school because he understood their problems so well.

Jackson was a State Degree Mason. He was also a charter member and past president of the Rotary Club of Pasadena, Texas. He was a life time member of this organization.

Surviving are his wife Mrs. Sara Jackson, who teaches fourth grade in the Irving Schools, two sons Horace Jackson and two daughters, who are teachers with the Pasadena Public School System. These grandchildren, young teachers include a 7th grade teacher and a 4th grade teacher.

Pistol Shot Kills Wichita Falls Man

A 39-year-old Wichita Falls man was found shot in an Irving motel Wednesday morning by officer Ray Pierce.

John Leonard Keeney Jr., 39, apparently inflicted the wound on himself with a .22-caliber pistol. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Parkland Hospital by Justice of the Peace Glenn Davies.

A Holiday Motel attendant called the police station at 10:42 and reported that Keeney was having difficulty breathing. When patrolman Pierce arrived, he discovered the man had been shot behind the right ear.

A .22-caliber pistol was found with one shell expended. Reports indicate that the man was despondent over marital and financial problems. He worked for the All Sea and Air Travel Agency in Wichita Falls.

Police Sgt. John Bohannon arrived and aided Pierce in administering first aid. Keeney was still alive when he was put in the ambulance, but police officers said his breathing was very labored.

Detectives Joe Hubbard and Perry Stevens are investigating the case.

Arlington Explosion Kills 2 Workers

By
ROBERT C. STEWART, JR.
Two men were killed Thursday in an explosion at the Jet Research Center, Inc., near Arlington at 2:30 p.m.

No other deaths occurred when the small eight-foot blending house disintegrated from the force of the blast, leaving a gaping hole in the ground. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

Killed were E. J. King, 2015 W. Randolph Mill, 21, Arlington, and George Hendricks, Jr., 3221 Mooney Road, 22, Grand Prairie.

Reginald Robinson, Fort

Worth, president of the company, said that the cause of the explosion would be determined as soon as possible.

"We may have something by tomorrow," he said Thursday. "We are trying to piece everything together and sometimes it's a long, slow process."

At the time of the explosion, the two men, listed by the company as blenders, were in the building containing a rocket fuel blending machine.

Alfred Bunje, production manager, pointed out that the chemical compounds used in the machine were very unstable. The Arlington resident said that friction or static electricity could ignite the chemicals.

He also pointed out that this was the first explosion at the plant. It began operation in November, 1955.

The company, located on Woods Chapel Road southeast of Arlington, contracts government research in rocket fuels.

A building, similar to the one disintegrated, and located 25 feet from the blender was not harmed. The eight-foot moated building is built of a special plastic that disintegrates when the building explodes.

Comedian Killed In Accident

BY VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
WEST LOS ANGELES, Calif. --- Cigar-chewing comedian Ernie Kovacs died early Saturday when his speeding car skidded on a rain-slick street and crashed into a utility pole.

The 42-year-old star, returning home from a baby shower for the Milton Berl-es, was killed instantly at 1:30 a.m. PST.

Police said his compact white station wagon jumped the curb, flew into the air
and struck the steel pole broadside.

Minutes earlier his wife,
singer-comedienne Edie Adams, had left the gay party at the home of producer-director Billy Wilder in another car. They had been celebrating the adoption by Berle and his wife, Ruth, of a three-week-old boy last New Year's eve.

Among a score of guests attending the party were Lucille Ball and her new husband, Gary Morton, the Dean Martins, Kirk Douglasses, French
star Yves Montand, actor Martin Gabel and other Hollywood notables.

There were no eyewitnesses, but a few minutes after the accident a motorist saw the wreckage and called police.

Krebs' Son Dies In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Jim Krebs, center for the Western Division champion Los Angeles Lakers, was called home Tuesday from Detroit because of the sudden death of his 6-month-old son, the basketball club announced.

The Lakers are in Detroit for a Western Division play-off game with the Pistons Tuesday night. Krebs came up from Southern Methodist.

A club spokesman said Mrs. Jane Krebs, mother of the child, found the infant, James O'Kelly Krebs, dead in his crib. The child had not been ill and an autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death.

Krebs, a 5-year veteran with the National Basketball Association Lakers, has been having one of his best seasons this year. The Krebs have another child; a daughter, Casey, aged 2½.

The club said it did not know when Krebs would re-join the Lakers who have two games at Detroit before returning home.
