A second murder occurred early Monday morning when Charles Roberts was shot in the head. According to police, Kenneth Henson, 21, reported that Roberts had thrown a rock through his car window in a business parking lot on Wildwood Road. Henson then got out of the auto and fired several shots from a .25 caliber automatic pistol, striking Roberts. The victim was able to run to the 2100 block of Vanco Drive before collapsing.

Police said Henson hid the pistol in a Wildwood warehouse, but later led police to the gun. He was arrested at the scene and is being held in the Irving jail on murder charges.

A school bus drove up to Barton Elementary School on Friday, every day before and after school, picking up and dropping off students. Local police said the accident was just that, an accident.

A 5-year-old girl was crushed between a school bus and a car on her way to school. The girl, identified as Rozameta, was taken to the hospital and later died.

Rozameta was one of six children from Barton that attended a morning bilingual kindergarten class at J.O. Schulze Elementary. Each morning after school, Rozameta returned on a bus to Barton because her residence was within that school's district.

Duggins said all kindergartners are supervised when they get out of school in the morning by Barton's two kindergarten teachers.

Duggins said he often helps teachers with the supervision.

"Kids getting hurt bothers me," Duggins said. "That's why we stress safety so much, and that's why we watch over the kids the way we do. I guess we have so few accidents as possible with a bunch of kids running around, but once in a while something terrible is going to happen. It's so unfortunate."

Duggins said the bus carrying the bilingual students get on the bus at L.B. Barton Elementary for the ride.

Officials: accidents will happen

Kindergarteners who attend Schulze pulls into the west parking lot when it reaches Barton. Roxanna was injured on the parking lot.

However, the bus stop will be moved now, he said.

Monday the curbs in front of the school were repainted and a bus loading zone will be established, Duggins said.

"This is something I have wanted to have done for awhile," he said. "We are going to have the buses load and unload in front of the school rather than on the parking lot."

Keeping children out of the traffic flow was the reason the bus used to load and unload on the parking lot, he said.

Dave Kidwell, a supervisor for the Dallas County School District, said Rosanna's accident was not due to any negligence on the part of the bus driver.

The Dallas County School Board is in charge of bus transportation for five school districts in the county, including Irving.

"I started an investigation into the accident at the same time the police did," Kidwell said. "We evaluated everything, and there was no fault or negligence on the part of the driver."

Kidwell said the driver involved in the accident returned to work morning after a one-day leave of absence.

"All of the drivers are trained," he said. "You don't come in here, hop on a bus and drive. We train them and have to go through the training several times a year."

Kidwell said safety is stressed daily to each driver, and accidents are often prevented by the drivers.

"Some things just can't be avoided," he said. "I hate to see this happen. It's never happened in the years I've been doing this. It's terrible."

to their home schools so the students can walk home or parents can pick up their children.

"This is the saddest day of the year," Townley said. "When a 5-year-old dies, it's just doubly sad."

Townley said this is the first time a child has been killed by a school bus in the 35 years he has been with the school district.

But some parents of youngsters attending L.B. Barton say they have expected that an accident like this would happen for some time now.

"There's been a lot of neglect on the part of the school staff for a long time," Georgia Dorsey, mother of a 5-year-old Barton Elementary student, said. "There should have been someone there to supervise those kids — five-year-olds don't have very much reasoning power at all."

Mrs. Dorsey said that she and about 30 other parents of youngsters will picket the LISD Administration Building on North O'Connor Road Monday to voice their concerns on staff supervision at the the elementary school.

According to Mrs. Dorsey and Mrs. Alvarez, no one from the school's staff supervises the dismissal of the kindergartners or receives them when they arrive in the morning.

"I feel that there should have been teachers out there," Mrs. Alvarez said. "They just let them all go at 11 o'clock and nobody stands out there and supervises them — they just let them out of there."

Mrs. Alvarez said that once when she was unable to pick up her child on time, she found her son was made to wait outside in freezing temperatures and alone for an hour and 15 minutes.

"I feel that someone should be patrolling out there," she said.

"It's the first time something like this has happened," Mrs. Dorsey said. "but we've been afraid something like this would happen for a while."

The Fuentes and their five children had fled El Salvador, in the midst of civil war, last summer.

Fuentes is employed as a construction worker in Las Colinas. Mrs. Fuentes, who is expecting her sixth child, is employed as a custodian at La Quinta.
5-year-old crushed by bus

A 5-year-old Irving girl died Friday after a school bus ran over her in front of Barton Elementary, 2931 Conflans Road.

Roxanna Fuentes died of internal injuries at 12:55 p.m. at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas.

Superintendent J.F. Townley said the girl crawled under the school bus to retrieve a paper she had dropped. The driver, unaware the child was under the bus, started the vehicle and began to drive off.

Realizing something had been hit, the driver stopped to investigate.

Townley said when the driver saw the injured girl she ran into the school to call an ambulance. She had been crushed beneath the double rear wheels of the bus.

"The driver is just devastated," he said.

Before the driver returned, two women who were at the school to pick up their children, carried the child to a car and took her to paramedics at Fire Station No. 2, at Story Road and Irving Boulevard.

The girl was then transported to Parkland.

The child's mother arrived to pick up her kindergartener shortly after the accident, police said.

"She went into shock," Regina Alvarez, mother of another kindergartener at L.B. Barton, said.

The child had already been taken away by that time and the police were at the scene.

Mrs. Alvarez is also Mrs. Fuentes' supervisor at La Quinta Inn.

Roxanna was one of a dozen bilingual kindergarten students at J.O. Schulze Elementary School, but was discharged from her bus at L.B. Barton because her residence was within that school's district, Townley said.

All bilingual classes are held at Schulze Elementary, Townley said, and the students are then returned
