IPD issues 50 citations

From staff and wire reports

While the streets of Irving were relatively quiet New Year's, Texas traffic accidents — most of them involving just one vehicle — claimed the lives of at least 14 people during the 54-hour holiday period, officials said.

Irving traffic police issued more than 50 citations New Year's night between 6 p.m. and 3 a.m., and arrested three people.

Two were intoxicated, and one tried to run away from a police motorcycle on Loop 12. He was stopped after a chase of speeds up to 96 mph, police said.

"It was busy, but there weren't any problems," said traffic Sgt. Hugh Corbin.

Patrol officers responded to 15 calls to quiet loud parties, one report of fireworks going off, more than 10 domestic disputes, several fights and one man with a gun. The man was shooting his pistol into the air, but was gone when police arrived.

The Texas Department of Public Safety's traffic death tally, which began at 6 p.m. Monday and ended at midnight Wednesday, was expected to reach 17 by the time the official count is compiled, DPS spokesman Mike Cox said.

Among those killed was Karen L. Elliott, 20, of Houston, who died in a head-on collision at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday in Harris County. The other vehicle's driver survived.

Walter Jones Jr., 47, of Dallas died at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday after his car hit a guardrail as it exited Central Expressway at a high rate of speed. Jones wore no safety belt, Cox said.

Edward Acosta Garza, 21, of Odessa was killed at 3:55 p.m. Wednesday when his motorcycle hit a curb, overturned and slid into a stop sign at a city intersection.

Dorothy Goudeau, 40, of Houston died at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday in a head-on collision nine miles west of La Grange on Texas Highway 71, said DPS spokesman David Wells.

Danny Paul Ferrell, 27, of Houston was killed when his motorcycle ran off a road in Harris County, Wells said. The accident took place about 6:15 p.m. Tuesday.

An 8-year-old Seguin girl was killed after she was thrown from a vehicle during a collision in Victoria Tuesday night. The victim was identified as Cassandra Thompson.

Prentice Isiah Patton, 67, of San Angelo died Tuesday night when a car struck a concrete bridge in the West Texas city.

Mark Stephen Lambert, 23, of Arlington was killed early Wednesday in a two-vehicle collision in Arlington.

A 21-year-old El Paso man died of injuries he sustained early Wednesday when a pickup truck struck another vehicle, a guard rail and then ran off Interstate 10 in El Paso. The victim was identified as Ronald Stuart.
