Body found

By RICK DILL
Daily News Staff

The body of a 24-year-old Irving woman was found Monday submerged in a drainage canal under the 100 block of South Loop 12 just north of Irving Boulevard. She had been shot in the head, police said.

Kelly Michelle Gilmore, last address 2503 W. Fourth Street, Irving, was discovered by a transient who had jumped off a freight train under the Loop 12 bridge and saw her body in the ditch.

Field-agents of the Dallas County Medical Examiners office ruled the death a homicide, and said she had been in the ditch since sometime over the weekend before she was found at 11:30 a.m. An autopsy revealed she had been shot once in the head, said investigations Capt. Tom Caperton.

"She was killed sometime over the weekend, (the medical examiners) are not certain yet," Caperton said. "It will take some time for tests come back."

Gilmore had no identification on her when her fully clothed body was found, but was identified at 9:15 p.m. through fingerprint records in the Irving Municipal Jail.

Brett John Schultz, 22, was under the Loop 12 overpass at the railroad tracks when he saw the woman floating in the drainage ditch.

"At first I tried to stop cars on the street, but no one would stop," he said. "Then I saw a guy getting in a car (near the Texas Power and Light office).

"I said, 'Hey, there's a body in the ditch over there, it looks like it's dead.'"

Skid-marks-were-found-on-the-service road where it crosses under Loop 12. A blood splatter was about 2 feet from the curb, directly above where Gilmore's body was found in the culvert. Evidence indicated the woman slid about 25 feet down a concrete embankment before coming to rest partially submerged in the creek, police said.

Caperton said there are no suspects and no motive. The investigation is continuing, he said.
