Rifle discharge kills
Fort Worth gun owner

By REGINA STEFFEN
News Staff Writer

A 20-year-old Fort Worth man was killed Thursday when his AK-47 assault replica inadvertently discharged, striking him in the head at point-blank range, police said.

Shane Allen Linebaugh was pronounced dead about 10 p.m. shortly after police and medical personnel found him in the bedroom of an Irving mobile home on Guthrie Street.

Police say they believe Linebaugh's gun misfired when he and his friend, who resides at the mobile home, were examining the weapon.

Although an investigation continues, charges have not been filed against Linebaugh's friend.

"The detectives do not believe the shooting was intentional," said IPD spokeswoman Sydney Gomez. "The best as the police can tell, the two men were the best of friends."

Police declined to release the name of the 23-year-old man who apparently was the only witness to the incident. Linebaugh's wound was inflicted by a 7.62mm round.

"As far as we know, the two men were not drinking, nor were they fighting," Gomez said. "There were no witnesses to the shooting. I am not even sure if there was anyone else home at the time."

AK-47 assault rifles and their replicas are legal semi-automatic weapons.

"We don't know why Linebaugh would purchase an AK-47 assault rifle but they are legal," Gomez said.

Linebaugh's shooting death is the second accidental shooting in the city this year. The first, under similar circumstances, was the accidental shooting death of Danny Ray Whatley Jr. on Jan. 30. Whatley also died after a shotgun he and a friend were handling accidentally discharged.
