Four sought in execution of man found in Irving

Police say all five members of gang

By REGINA STEFFEN
News Staff Writer

A worried girlfriend and a business card in the pants pocket of a man found shot execution-style under a Loop 12 bridge have led Irving police to four suspects.

Martin Pinon, 20, was found dead by a passing motorist on the Loop 12 turnaround south of Shady Grove Road at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Irving police found Pinon slumped over on his knees with a bullet wound to the back of his head. In his pocket was the business card of a Dallas detective, who police said had been questioning Pinon as a witness to a crime in that city, Irving Capt. Travis J. Hall said.

Hall would not elaborate on what crime Pinon might have witnessed, nor would he say whether Pinon's questioning by Dallas police was the motive for the murder.

Hall said Pinon was shot at a residence on Odessa Street in Dallas, then his body was dumped in Irving. Irving police had been holding a warrant for his arrest for burglary of a habitation.

Hall said the four suspects and Pinon were members of the same gang, but would not say which one.

See SHOOTING, Page 3A
Shooting: Four suspects held in death

"The shooting occurred in Dallas, but we can't say where the death occurred," Irving police spokeswoman Sydney Gomez said. "Since the body was found in Irving, it's being handled as an Irving murder."

When Dallas police were told that Pinon had been murdered, officers told Irving detectives what they knew about Pinon's movements earlier Saturday.

"Pinon had a girlfriend who he called before he was shot, and he told her where he was," Hall said. "He said something to the effect that he would never see her again. Later that day, she went to the house where Pinon told her he was."

When she got there, three people ran out of the house and jumped a fence, Hall said. A fourth person, later arrested by Irving police and identified as 35-year-old Emilio Casillas Jr., remained in the house.

When the girlfriend left, she called Dallas police, Hall said. When Dallas police arrived, a van that had been in the driveway when the girlfriend arrived was gone. Police broadcast a description of the vehicle, which was later spotted in Duval County, in South Texas.

After Pinon's body was found, Irving detectives went to the house on Odessa Street, where they arrested Casillas on suspicion of murder. They also seized eight ounces of cocaine, Hall said.

Irving police are currently in Duval County questioning three passengers in the van whom they said were also occupants of the house where the shooting took place, Hall said.

"We do not know if they traveled to Duval County to hide or if they were on their way to Mexico," Hall said.

Irving police had arrest warrants for murder on two of the three suspects. They were identified by police as 25-year-old Joe Thomas Hernandez and 24-year-old Linda Martinez Galvan.

Officers arrest suspect in capital murder case

During the Irving Police Department's patrol briefing Thursday evening, information was handed out about a suspect in a Dallas capital murder case. The patrol sergeant told officers that Dallas police had information that 30-year-old murder suspect David Holley might be staying in a local hotel.

Later that evening officer Ricky Rosenblad identified a 1980 Toyota Corona as the car belonging to Holley, police said. It was parked in the lot at the Classic Inn, 1920 E. Grauwyler Road, reports said.

"When Rosenblad identified the car, the police began a stakeout at the hotel," IPD spokeswoman Sydney Gomez said. "After waiting, Holley exited his hotel room and he was arrested on the Dallas warrant without incident."

Holley was taken to the Irving jail Thursday night and Dallas police were notified of his arrest.

Sgt. Jim Chandler of the Dallas Police Department said Holley is suspected of killing William Portwood, 60, at his office at 12680 Hillcrest Road in Dallas.

"His body was found Sunday (Aug. 8) in his office," Chandler said. "The last time Portwood was seen prior to that was Saturday afternoon."

Police are unsure whether Holley knew Portwood or if Portwood's killing was a random act of violence, Chandler said.

Chandler said police filed capital murder charges because when Portwood was killed, his credit cards and his car were stolen. The robbery made the killing a capital offense according to Texas law, police said.

Dallas police said reports listed Portwood as a clinical social worker. Holley was an unemployed plumber, Chandler said.

Motorcyclist killed during police chase

A chase involving an Irving officer and a motorcyclist ended at 12:45 a.m. Wednesday when the 34-year-old motorcycle rider was catapulted from his vehicle after hitting a concrete median in Dallas, police said.

The chase began when Kent Reed of Irving sped past officer C.W. Shouse on his 1982 black Suzuki motorcycle on Shady Grove Road, police said.

Reed was eastbound toward Dallas at that time, Irving police spokeswoman Sydney Gomez said.

Shouse tried to pull Reed over, Gomez said. Reed continued driving east without stopping and crossed over the city limits into Dallas, Gomez said.

In the 200 block of Regal Row in Dallas, Reed failed to negotiate a curve, Gomez said, and was thrown from the motorcycle, she said.

"Reed was pronounced dead at the scene by the Dallas medical examiner, due to multiple blunt force injuries," Gomez said.

Although definitive blood test results from the medical examiner—take several weeks, alcohol might be a factor in this accident, Gomez said.

In a strange twist to the story, Reed had been issued a citation earlier Tuesday evening for calling 911 several times and hanging up when the dispatcher answered, Gomez said.

"After repeated hang-up and annoyance calls to 911, police went out to his residence on Vilbig Street and issued him a citation for abuse of the 911 emergency system," Gomez said.

Banshees mourn the passing of one of their biker brethren

By REGINA STEFFEN
News Staff Writer

Word had spread across town. And the police were on standby. But after the Harley Davidson procession had rumbled through Irving and left in a cloud of exhaust, the crime rate had not budged.

Dozens of members of the motorcycle gang Banshees roared through town Thursday. They came from Tennessee, Alabama, Oklahoma and Louisiana, among other states, to pay peaceful respects to one of their Banshee brethren, Billy Joe Roberson. Also known as “Whiskey Bill,” Roberson died last week during a Halloween party in Louisiana.

The exact cause of Roberson’s death was not disclosed by family and friends, but Banshees president “Stubby John” said, “Whiskey Bill went out the way he wanted to — partying.”

Mourners at Roberson’s funeral, held at First United Methodist Church, parked more than 30 Harley Davidson motorcycles outside the church and wore their typical leather, patches
