Harkrider, Naomi Ruth

HARKRIDER, NAOMI RUTH. The family of Naomi Ruth Harkrider sadly announces the end of her earthly journey but rejoices in the many roads she traveled since November 13, 1924. Named for two strong Biblical women, Naomi Ruth possessed great strength and determination, and the love and a passion for life and people that was part of her beautiful and unstoppable spirit. She was born to Stephen and Sally Maddox Harris in Blossom, Texas in rural Lamar County. Born to proud, working people she knew hard work and always appreciated what really mattered in life. She was married 56 years to the love of her life, William H. "John" Harkrider, of Dallas, and they moved through their life together as partners, parents, and friends. Their lives live on in the large family that carries forth a favorite saying: "I may not be rich but I have plenty babies." Naomi might argue with a person but she never met a dog she didn't like or that she wouldn't give refuge. She loved politics that accomplished something for the many, rather the few. Naomi worked in the home and in her husband's business until all her children had started school. She then began a career at Texas Instruments that lasted for over 20 years where she assisted a team in developing the microprocessor. After her husband's death in 1996 she moved to Austin, where she continued her full life of keeping up with children and grandchildren and receiving her host of friends, old and new alike. She was preceded in death by her daughter, Jeryal Gay Harkrider; and brothers, Bill and Jack Lewis of Hobbs, NM; and is survived by her children: William H. Harkrider; Jan Stone and husband, Jim; Jack Harkrider and wife, Vicki; Joan Winkelvoss and her husband, Tom; and Mark D. Harkrider, all of Texas. She is also survived by her grandchildren: Chris Barbour, Kurt Winkelvoss, Kelli Harkrider, Donna Hornick and husband, Bill, James Harkrider and wife, Rebecca, Kathy Norman and husband, Jeff, Julie George and husband, Rob, Matt Winkelvoss and wife, Susan, Kyle Barbour and wife, Angie, and Joe Stone. Her great-grandchildren are: Zach Winkelvoss, Ashton Norman, Luke Winkelvoss, Kade Norman, Ty Winkelvoss, Araya Barbour, Katie Hornick, Lexi Winkelvoss, Wyatt George, and Emmy Hornick. "Oh they tell me that he smiles on his children there and his smile drives their sorrows away...Oh they tell me that the tears never come again...Oh they tell me of an unclouded day." Family will receive friends from 6-8:00 PM on Thursday, September 16, 2004 at Restland Funeral Home. Please bring a favorite photo or story of Naomi Ruth. Graveside services will be at 10:30 AM on Friday, September 17, 2004 at Restland Memorial Park, Clayton McCord, Pastor, Four Mile Lutheran Church, Mabank officiating.
