JOHNSON COUNTY

Deaths of retired officer and wife investigated

Johnson County deputies are investigating whether a former Dallas police officer shot and killed his wife and then fatally shot himself Wednesday. Deputies found the bodies of Kim Hammond, 60, and his wife, Judy, 55, about 8:20 a.m. on the back porch of their new home on Montroes Street, said Cpl. Pam Jetzel of the Johnson County Sheriff's Department. Mr. Hammond called 911 about 7:50 a.m. Wednesday and told a dispatcher that someone had been shot, Cpl. Jetzel said. As the dispatcher asked questions, Mr. Hammond hung up. Cpl. Jetzel said that Mr. Hammond and his wife had been shot with a 9 mm handgun and that deputies are investigating the incident as a murder-suicide. The couple had been moving into their new home Tuesday. Mr. Hammond retired from the Dallas Police Department in September 2004.
