Golf Legend Byron Nelson Passes Away

Byron Nelson, one of golf's greatest players, but more importantly its greatest gentleman, died September 26 at his home in Roanoke. Nelson, who was one of the sport's last 20th century legends, was 94.

While Nelson will always be known for his seemingly untouchable records, 11 straight PGA tour wins in 1945 and 18 total in that magical season, he will be remembered as a deeply religious man and a tremendous humanitarian.

"We are deeply saddened by the loss of Byron and our thoughts and prayers are with his wife, Peggy, and his family," Salesmanship Club of Dallas President Lawrence M. Wesson said. "He was an amazing man and an example for us all. As an active member of the Salesmanship Club of Dallas since 1971, Byron was more to us than a great golfer. He was a leader in the community and a great friend. Because of Byron's association with our Club, we have been able to help thousands of children and families."

pionship donated more than $6.3 million to Salesmanship Club Youth and Family Centers (SCYFC). More than $94 million has been raised for SCYFC since the tournament's inception.

Irving Convention and Visitors Bureau Executive Director, Maura Allen Gast, expressed the gratitude Irving has for Mr. Nelson's involvement with the tournament and the City: "Irving has lost a close friend. Byron Nelson was a leader, a giver, a role model and an inspiration. He made a legend with his swing but crafted a legacy with his gen-
