

Ora Early

Early, Ora Ellen May 2, 1944 - May 9, 2010 Ora Ellen, beloved wife of Judson Horace Early, left this earth on Mothers Day. How fitting that God should take this dedicated mother to be with him. Mother to Jo Ellen and Judson Jr. Ora continued to dispense "Momisms" despite their adult ages. Ora and Jud were high school sweethearts. Married at 17, and despite much skepticism, Ora graduated and immediately found a position in the legal department of an insurance company. Two years later, Jo Ellen was born. Ora was at first a reluctant mom, wanting a career, but also wanting the best for her child. Judson Jr. came along after another two and a half years, making the family complete. The remainder of Ora's life was spent in making a home, caring for the children and supporting Jud in his career. An avid softball player, Ora Ellen took pride in the fact that she was still playing in league play at the age of forty, and had played in sleet, rain and high summer heat. The family supported this passion, attending numerous games and traveling to tournaments. Instrumental in building a family business, Ora took pride in its success. A career change for Jud took the couple, who were by that time empty-nesters, to North Carolina. A Texas girl through and through, Ora missed the bustling life in the Dallas Fort Worth area and looked forward to returning when Jud retired. During a recent trip to the area, the couple identified a target neighborhood that would someday be home again in Texas. A crippling stroke at age 52 would change Ora's life forever. Although she regained partial use, her weakened limbs and constant fatigue was ever present. For more than thirteen years, Ora fought back. Never admitting satisfaction with her recovery, she worked puzzles to maintain mental acuity. Her love of music cannot be understood by those who are not close. With an extensive collection of records, tapes and CDs, her knowledge of music trivia amazed many. An avid reader, her interests were broad, but leaned to fiction and biographical topics. Always with an opinion, one would know where Ora stood on many issues. She loved house plants and gardening and shared plant knowledge with those having similar interests. Her love of cats is also well remembered: rarely was the home without a cat. For more than a decade, Ora faced life with the hope that she would experience a miraculous recovery, and often spoke of wanting to be the test case for any new procedure. That was not to be, and Ora Ellen went on to her reward. She is survived by husband Jud, daughter Jo Ellen Early of Irving, Texas, son Judson H. Early Jr. and wife Marsha of Brevard, NC, and grandsons Matt Roth, Judson H. Early III, Dakota Buchanan and Austin Roth, brothers John Eddins and Charles Slayton as well as many extended family members. Visitation will be from 6 to 8 pm Thursday evening with funeral service Friday May 14th at 12:30 pm. Bluebonnet Hills Funeral Home & Cemetery 5725 Colleyville Blvd Colleyville, TX
