Violet Caldwell Andrews (1913 - 2012)

Violet Caldwell Andrews, 99, died Saturday, Feb. 11, 2012, at her residence in Valley Ranch. Her body was donated to UT Southwestern Medical Center for scientific research. An announcement of the burial of the ashes will be made at a later date. As a lifelong Texan she found time to follow a family tradition and master Texas 42: as a woman of her times she enjoyed playing bridge. When a young woman Violet was a member of the Fort Worth Women’s Marching Band, and attended the 1933 Chicago World’s Fair. Born before women had the right to vote, she lived to vote for a woman to be nominee for president of the United States. With her optimistic nature and ready smile she made many friends. Violet worked at Stripling's Department Store, Fort Worth, in the 1920s and 1930s. This period of her career spanned 15 years. From 1957 to 1975, she worked for the U.S. Postal Service, also in Fort Worth. Among the churches where Violet was a parishioner were St. George Catholic Church in Fort Worth, St. John the Apostle Catholic Church in Richland Hills, and St. Ann Catholic Church in Coppell. Prior to her elder age, she participated in many activities centered on the church and the parish schools her children attended. She was preceded in death by her husband, James W. Andrews; her son, James W. Andrews Jr.; brothers, Dr. William V. Caldwell of Flint, Mich., and the Rev. M.B. Caldwell of Porterville, Calif.; and sister-in-law, Cora Caldwell of Mill Valley, Calif. Survivors: Daughters, Mary Jo Hilsinger and Vera Elaine Andrews; sons, George Thomas Andrews and William David Andrews; daughter-in-law, Kathy Patrick Andrews; and grandson, James Patrick Andrews, all of Irving. She also leaves three nephews, David Caldwell of Bella Vista, Ark., Joe Caldwell of Sausalito, Calif., and Thomas Jefferson Caldwell of Lapeer, Mich.; niece, Deborah Solinas of Hanover, Md.; and her sister-in-law, Beatrice Caldwell of Ann Arbor, Mich. As the descendant of early Texas settlers she is also survived by many children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren of her two brothers and 23 first cousins.

Quida Louise Arnold

Quida Louise Arnold, formerly Ouida Keeter, 86, of Irving, went to meet her Lord and Savior on December 5, 2012. She was born September 19, 1926, in Elbert, TX to John Elbert Keeter and Nina Belle (Curtis) Keeter. Ouida is pre-deceased by her husband of 61 years, Robert Edd Arnold. Ouida and Bob moved to Irving in 1953, where she was a full-time home-maker. After her girls were grown, Ouida began to volunteer in the gift shop at Baylor Hospital in Irving where she worked faithfully for over 30 years. The Arnolds joined First Baptist Church of Irving in 1953, and were members there for over 30 years. They were then sent out from FBC to help start what would become Fellowship Church in Grapevine, TX. At Fellowship Church, Ouida was very active in the nursery ministry. They were also founding members of Valley Ranch Baptist Church in Coppell, TX, where they were members when Bob died. After becoming a widow, Ouida rejoined First Baptist in Irving. Ouida is survived by her daughters; Kathie Walker (John) of Jacksonville, FL, and Karen Phillips (Jeff) of Glen Rose, TX. Grandchildren Matt Hannah (Sarah), Meri Deal, Michael Hannah, Joshua Walker, Mitch Phillips, Mark Hannah, Byron Phillips and Nina Walker. Great grandchildren Autumn Walker, Madison Deal, Mason Hannah, and Jaden Huett. A celebration of her life was Monday, December 10, at 1:00 PM at First Baptist Church in Irving, TX. Interment was Tuesday at Dallas-Fort Worth National Cemetery. Arrangements by Donnelly’s Colonial Funeral Home.

Joe Avezzano

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboys special teams coach Joe Avezzano, whose wild sideline antics made him a fan favorite when the Cowboys won three Super Bowls in the 1990s, died Thursday. He was 68. (Dec. 5, 2012.
Born Jan. 17, 1943.

Cowboys spokesman Rich Dalrymple confirmed that Avezzano died in Italy. He had moved to Milan earlier this year to coach an Italian Football League team, the Milan Seamen. That team said on its website that Avezzano died of a heart attack. Attempts to resuscitate Avezzano were unsuccessful, the team said.

Avezzano had a 12-year run with the Cowboys and became a popular figure in North Texas. He was the Cowboys’ special teams coach from 1990 to 2002, prowling the sidelines as the team won Super Bowls in 1993, ’94 and ’96. Avezzano was named the NFL’s special teams coach of the year three times.

Known affectionately in the Dallas area as “Coach Joe,” he maintained a high profile after he left the Cowboys when Bill Parcells was hired as head coach in 2003.

“There are not many days that go by where we are not sharing a legendary Joe Avezzano story or using a trademark Joe Avezzano expression,” Cowboys head coach Jason Garrett said. “He was a wonderful friend. We loved him very much, and he will be sorely missed.”

He spent two seasons as head coach of the Arena Football League’s Dallas Desperadoes, which were owned by the family of Cowboys owner Jerry Jones. He became a regular on Cowboys-related TV and radio shows in the Dallas market and opened a “Coach Joe’s” restaurant in the area.

“Joe Avezzano was a very special part of our Dallas Cowboys family and our organization’s history,” Jones said in a statement released by the team. “No one enjoyed life more than Joe, and no one that I know had a greater appreciation for the people that he loved and the lives that he touched. There was no one else like him.”

Avezzano also coached special teams for the Oakland Raiders for two years under Norv Turner until Turner was fired after the 2005 season. Avezzano and Turner were on the staff together in Dallas.

“Joe Avezzano was a great coach and a super guy,” NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said. “We are saddened by his loss.”

In February, Avezzano took over the Seamen. Italians in Dallas threw Avezzano a send-off party before he left, Dallas television station WFAA reported.

“I am the long lost heir to the throne,” Avezzano joked, according to the station. “They’ve been looking for me in Italy for years. Now they’ve found me and I’m going back and I will return to Avezzano. And that’s going to be part of my travels.”
