They were active in church at Audelia Road Baptist Church for over 20 years then later at First Baptist Dallas. Bill taught Sunday School for several years, was a Deacon, Chairman of the Deacons, and Director of his Sunday School class. Bill's philosophy was to always extend a hand to those in need if you can - and you always can. Church was not something done only on Sundays, but a way of life - a philosophy of putting others before yourself and giving of what God had blessed you with. Bill started a firm with Gary Huselton in 1978 creating his second family at the firm, Huselton, Morgan and Maultsby. By 2012 when he retired, the firm had grown to over 60 people and provided over 34 years of doing what he loved. Many of Bill's colleagues, employees, friends, and clients will forever enjoy his unique sense of humor, wit and wisdom. Some of our favorite Bill Morgan-isms are "You can be happy or you can be sad, but it's more fun to be happy", "Nothing hard is ever easy", "Part of a gusher is better than all of a dry hole" and his usual parting "I am a legend in my own mind". Bill not only was a legend in his own mind but also in the hearts of so many family and friends who loved him. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him.
