Doris Fuller

Mother, grandmother, sister and friend, Doris Fuller passed into eternal rest at noon on December 22, 2014. Her daughter, Paula, - at her side. Born in Prairie Hill, Texas, she was the middle child of seven born of Bess and Arthur Hargrove. They were a farming family growing and selling cotton. She often told stories of those days and of the struggles during the dust storms and the Great Depression. It was in that small community that Doris became a Christian, following the Lord all the days of her life. She had always known John Fuller, a boy from a nearby farm. At sixteen they were sweethearts, and as soon as Doris graduated from Mexia High School, they eloped and made their home in Fort Worth. John worked at the aircraft factory and she in the catalogue department of Montgomery Ward. In 1943, daughter, Paula, was born and they bought a house in Grand Prairie, Doris became a homemaker and became active in First Baptist Church where she was president of the WMU and taught Sunday School. Son, John Cosby was born in 1946. She was a Cub Scout leader and Little League supporter, GPHS football and avid Cowboy fan. In the sixties, John and Doris established a plastics business, Jois Plastics in Irving and moved to that community. She was a member of Plymouth Park Baptist Church, a competitive tennis player, airplane pilot, a most doting grandmother, and loyal friend. They gave generously to their church and community. Doris is preceded in death by her husband John Fuller and son, John Cosby Fuller. Also preceding are her parents, siblings Wanda Massey, Geneva Russell, Lorene Worthy, Baby John Hargrove, Alice Joan Burges.
