Moore, William R.

September 9, 1946 - November 8, 2014

William Randall Moore, “Randy,” was born September 9th, 1946 to William Nathaniel and Gladdys Lance Moore. He grew up in the Pleasant Grove area in Dallas, Texas. He graduated from W. W. Samuell High School and attended Arlington State College.

His love for music started in high school where he played the clarinet in the marching band and was active in the school and church choir. Randy was a Boy Scout in troop 781 and earned his Eagle Scout in 1961.

He then went on to work in various positions at Frozen Food Express where he retired after 35 years.

Randy always loved scouting, camping, and fishing. He was the Scout Master for his sons’ entire troop and worked with the Boy Scout organization in some capacity throughout most of his life. He was an active board member at the Addison Community Theater where he spent many hours building sets, running lights and running sound. He also chaired the committee that worked towards the development of the Watertower Theatre at the Addison Theatre Centre.

Randy loved reading everything he could, but he especially enjoyed science fiction, instruction manuals, and junk mail.

After years of professing atheism he was challenged by a coworker named Elise to read the Bible. He had reached such a low time in his life that he didn’t think it could hurt. He began to read, and he identified with Job. He began attending Southwest Church of Christ and was baptized. He moved to Highland Oaks where one morning he met Gloria Weidler, a single mother of 3. Within 6 weeks, she proposed to him and they met with Bruce Norman to discuss the wedding. They were married on April 15, 1983.

Randy is survived by his wife of 31 years, Gloria, his five children, Lara, Sarah, Jeremy, Joshua and Joseph and their spouses, his four grandchildren, Nicole, Erik, Allyson and Garrett, his sister and brother-in-law, Lana and George Thompson, and his many nieces and nephews.

Autopsies have been completed, but questions remain about last week’s deaths of an elderly Plano couple, according to police.

James R. Moreland, 84, and his wife, Barbara F. Moreland, 80, were found shot to death in their home on Lake Shore Lane at about 7:30 a.m. Feb. 16.

Plano police spokesman David Tilley said investigators are still trying to figure out whether this was a double suicide or a murder-suicide. The couple had been dealing with medical issues.

According to the autopsy results, Barbara Moreland died of a contact shotgun wound to the head. Her death was ruled a suicide. James Moreland died of a contact shotgun wound to the chest. His manner of death was undetermined.

"It's going to be hard to tell," Tilley said, adding that a definitive ruling may not be made if police can't find enough evidence to show one over the other.

A memorial service for the couple is scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday at the Hunter's Glen Baptist Church in Plano.

The Morelands were both born in Irving and graduated from Irving High School, according to the online obituary from the Ted Dickey Funeral Home.

James Moreland served in the U.S. Army, where he trained paratroopers for the Korean Conflict. He did not get deployed. After his service, he earned a degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Texas. He spent his career with Texas Instruments, where “he held several patents and was a major contributor in TI’s development of integrated circuitry,” according to the obituary. He retired in the early 1990s. He also served on the board of trustees for Irving ISD.

Barbara Moreland grew up on her family’s farm, which was at the south end of Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. She was an artist and a stay-at-home mom for the couple’s two daughters.

The husband and wife both enjoyed bird hunting.

The family requests that memorials may be made to a cancer research institute.
