BETTY AND A.J. MILLS
1923 - 2015 | Obituary | Condolences

Mills, Betty & A. J. Betty and A. J. Mills died on Thursday, Aug. 27, and their story is one of immense love. Their beloved, bright spirits will be deeply missed by all who loved them. Betty was Mother, Mama, Nana; loving and patient, kind and gracious, artistic and adventurous, playful. She taught her girls how to skip rope, have parties in the cemetery, hunt for seashells and love Anne of Green Gables.
She got them their first library card and insisted on if they cut out making all night in the summer. A J accomplished lots, making them the perfect jack of all trades, their parents proud and key to bet. She loved to read, garden, play bridge, and make things with her hands. A J was brave, Pop, courageous and independent, outgoing and tender, loved by all. He was the special one. He had a special way of making us see the bright side of things, to appreciate the little things in life, and to find joy in the simplest things.

In the years after the death of her father, A J was born in Dallas, Texas on Oct. 12, 1923. In Arthur Hills and Berry Mills grew up on a farm, swimming in the Mississippi with his pet pig, Teddy Ted, and (dreamed of flying). When he saw his first plane, flying in his parents' yard, he knew he wanted to fly. He worked in the family market, where he proudly stocked his own section and, in his teens, played football and raced Indian motorcycles on dirt tracks. WWII interrupted A J's college football scholarship when he was commissioned as a Lieutenant in the Army Air Force and assigned as an aircraft commander to the 549th Bomb Group in North Africa. Flying B-24's, he completed fifty combat missions over Europe. Thus began a long career as an aviator, the second love of his life. The first and longest love of his life was in Texas. A J, had disciplined his pilot for piloting a silk parachute to take him home to Waxahachie, and that parachute was saved for many years, though she was ended in another crash. In the war, returning to a pilot in Bryan, Texas, where he met his wife Betty Wise, a raven haired, blue eyed beauty of a girl, and they fell in love. When her mother refused to give her permission, A J sold her, "We'll make the best of it, and I'll just have to court you later." This began an enduring and devoted union. Their first post was in Bonita, Florida, where A J was Base Operations officer. His twenty-five year career in the Air Force took him to the Berlin Airlift, to the new B-47 jet bomber program as pilot and operations officer, to Command and Staff College, an appointment to SAC HQ, graduation from the Air War College, and a three year tour in Madrid, Spain and finally to a post at Commander of a B-52 SAC wing at Hamilton AFB in New York. During their time in the Air Force, they traveled places home. Betty approached Mission with excitement.
And, he made dear friends, volunteered at schools and hospitals, planned weekends events and travels and was always ready for the late afternoon call from A J. that he was braving six or more home for dinner. She cherished the many places and people she met, and thought it a grand adventure. Her daughters remember her bohemian spirit and narrow in every New York, searching for their favorite spots for drama outside in the snow, for ice cream. She owned their baby dresses, made their prom gowns, taught them to make bouquets mantas, arrange flowers, and make her famous Keyboards. After long and displaced places.
Farming a three summer into the 50s near Waxahachie, fowing though Betty and AJ Mills retired to add a position as flight instructor at Boeing in Seattle.

Morrison, Catherine A.

February 4, 1909 - June 2, 2015

Born on February 4, 1909 in Middleport, Ohio, to Mary Densmore Thomas and Harry Stanton Thomas. She died on June 2, 2015 in Dallas, Texas, at the age of 106. Our beloved Mamoo is now in heaven after a wonderful life. Throughout her life, she had memories of the sinking of the Titanic, the introduction of the automobile, Lindberg’s crossing of the Atlantic, the stock market crash of 1929, Pearl Harbor, and man’s first landing on the moon.

She was married to Robert Knox Morrison Sr., who predeceased her in 1962. She spent her adult life in Niles, Ohio where she worked for the General Electric Company for 45 years, retiring in 1974. She was a long time member of First Presbyterian Church of Niles. She moved to Dallas in 2005. She was a member and picked the name of the Joy Class at Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas.

Catherine is survived by her three children: Linda Sue Jennings and husband Rex, Robert Knox Morrison, Jr. and wife Marty, and Thomas William Morrison; grandchildren: Robert Knox Morrison III and wife Blair, Robin Sue Martz and husband David, Nicholas Rex Jennings, Jr., Christopher Erin Morrison and wife Camille, and Catherine Anne Pate and husband Matthew; great grandchildren: Spencer Thomas Morrison, Catherine Kegan Martz, Payton Grace Morrison, Presley Sue Pate, Caroline Elizabeth Martz, Ryder Knox Morrison, George Matthew Pate, Samuel Jennings Pate, and Dominic D. Morrison. She is also survived by her niece, Caroline Melnykovich and husband George, and by her nephews William Densmore Thomas and Richard Edward Thomas and wife, April.

Nothing thrilled Mamoo more than being with her children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren. For 60 years, she spent every summer at the family home on Lake Temagami in Ontario, Canada, together with her family. There was much laughter, wonderful meals, and big fires in the fireplace on cool Canadian evenings. Mamoo always had her special work “projects” to occupy everyone’s day in lieu of napping or fishing. She was also a big time supporter of the University of Michigan football team, where her son, Bobby, coached. She went to many games, including bowl games all over the country. On January 1, 1998, she was at the Rose Bowl when Michigan won the National Championship in football.

A memorial service will be held on Saturday, June 6, at 10:00am at Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas, Ellis Chapel, with reception to follow the service. There will also be a service in Niles, Ohio on June 27, where she will be buried along side her husband.
